

St. Andrews' Church Holds Harvest Home

CHURCH IS APPROPRIATELY DECORATED

Harvest thanksgiving services were held in St. Andrews' Presbyterian church on Sunday last, when the church was fittingly decorated with grain, fruit, vegetables, plants, etc.

The pastor, Rev. W. S. Brooks, took charge of both services, and his scripture readings and sermons at both services were appropriate to the occasion.

In the morning he spoke on the subject of a deep thanksgiving and acknowledging the mercy and care of God for his creatures; his text being Deut. xvi, 11. The evening sermon dealt with the subject of the good and the evil mixing and living together as set forth in Matt. xiii, 24. "Let both grow together till the harvest."

The musical portion of the service was suitably arranged, with Mr. W. Carrell at the organ, and the large congregations joining heartily in the well-known harvest hymns.

The pastor wishes to thank all the donors for the abundance of material for decorating the church, practically all of which (including the monster loaf of bread donated by Owsen's Bakery) was handed over to the local hospital on Monday morning.

Local Branch Formed Alta. Teacher's Alliance

At a meeting held in the school on Saturday last, the members of Wainwright and district organized a local branch of the A.T.A. when the following officers were elected:

President—Mr. H. Thorsen
Vice-president—Miss E. Hart
Sec.-Treas.—Miss E. Love
Press Correspondent—Miss M. S. Sine

The major portion of the meeting was devoted to making arrangements for entertaining the members of the Battle River District Local when they assemble in Wainwright on Saturday, October 27th.

Mayor Forster is enjoying a visit from his nephew from the East.

Mr. J. N. Carrington of the Avonlea school district was quite seriously injured in a car accident near Edmonton. He is now confined to his home and under medical attention.

Accident Saturday Causes Painful Injuries

TRACTOR RUNS OVER LEGS OF HOPE VALLEY FARMER

Mr. K. Shaban, of Hope Valley, suffered a very painful accident on Saturday last while at work threshing, whereby a tractor being used ran over both his legs.

It appears that having completed threshing on the Hanton farm Mr. Shaban was coupling the tractor and separator together preparatory to making a move, with his son Frank driving. Owing to the clutch not operating correctly, the engine did not stop as intended, but backed up so rapidly as to throw Mr. Shaban to the ground with the result that it ran completely over him.

He was immediately brought to the hospital by Mr. John Black, jr., and placed in the care of Dr. Middleton, who found that although the patient was badly cut and bruised, very fortunately no bones were broken.

The injured man is getting along nicely now, and we wish him a speedy and full recovery.

No Session of Alberta House Before New Year

Calling of the Alberta legislature in pre-Christmas session "has not been contemplated" by Premier R. G. Reid and therefore is not likely to become a fact.

The Premier's statement was made when asked if he intended to follow the lead of Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan and call the house before Christmas.

With a fall session definitely out of the way, the decks will be cleared for the forthcoming by-election, which is expected to be held late in November or early in December.

The fifth and final session of the present legislature probably will be called at the end of October or early in February.

Railway to Give Prize For Most Beautiful & Largest Maple Leaf

Canadian maple leaf minded Magnificent autumn leaves blazed with all the flaming colors of fiery fall are being received in ever increasing numbers for judging in the nation wide competition being conducted by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. This year's competition for the most beautiful maple leaf, and for the largest leaf, is going to be exceptionally keen, according to reports from the railway officials in charge. Hundreds of beautiful leaves have already been received from appreciative nature lovers in the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, while leaves from the prairie provinces and British Columbia are beginning to put in an appearance. More than 10,000 leaves were received in the first competition held last fall, and this year present indications lead those concerned to the opinion that the total will be far more than twice that number.

With the sweeping ridges of maple trees already showing the splendid tints of fall, and with an ever increasing number of people making it a point of enjoying fall outings in the country side, those in charge are making preparations for a deluge of specimens from now on until October 15, when judges from the Royal Canadian Academy will commence their exacting task. The first prize for the most beautiful leaf in all Canada will be $50, the second $20, and the third prize $10. The first prize for the largest leaf is $15 and the 2nd $5.

LOCAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Jackson were business visitors to Edmonton for a few days last week and returned home on Sunday.

Quite an improvement is being effected in the Hoffman road, which has been made by the members, and wool was distributed to be made into sweaters. Some hospital sewing (sheets, etc.) was taken home by the members to do for that institution.

Two splendid quilts are under way; one to be drawn for this month and one at a later date. Tickets are on sale, and whoever wins one of these will certainly be kept warm this winter.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Ott was recipient of a dainty baby-book for her baby, and each member inscribed their name in it.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Chynoweth were joint hostesses and served a delicious lunch. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Alex. Horne.

Our readers are asked to note that the Liberal convention will commence in the Elite theatre at 2 o'clock sharp on Monday next. At the evening meeting at 8 p.m. Mr. W. Howson, leader of the provincial Liberal party and Hon. Charles Stewart, M.P., will address the gathering.

We sympathize with Mr. Joe Pepin who is lying sick at the hospital this week.

Bill Stuart is announcing a number of auction sales this week by posters from The Star Office. Among these are included sales of J. Street, Marwayne, October 20th; J. de Vos, Kin-sella, October 24th; J. Harden, sr., north of town, October 25th; F. Hesse, Irma, October 26th; A. Wheaton, south of town, October 27; and L. M. Roberts, Irma, October 30.

Next week, October 24-5-6 is the date for the annual fall livestock sales in Calgary.

Harvest Festival Held At St. Thomas' Church

SEASONABLE GIFTS TO CHURCH RENDER THANKS

On Sunday last, both services at St. Thomas' Anglican church marked the annual "Harvest Home" services, and large congregations filled the edifice morning and evening.

The church was simply but very prettily decorated with the fruits of field and garden, and the offerings of the members of the congregation, and the hospital and some of the sick of the parish were recipients of some of these goodies on Monday.

Hymns and music appropriate to the occasion were rendered by the Junior choir in the morning and the senior choir at the evening service, the congregation joining heartily in the singing.

The vicar preached both morning and evening, suitable texts being pronounced from John xiii, 24 and Deut. xvi, 13.

Sunday next, Oct. 21, being Children's Day at St. Thomas' there will be a Corporate Communion at 8 a.m. for the A.Y.P.A., and this same group will have charge of the evening worship.

MEN OF ST. THOMAS' CHURCH STAGE SUCCESSFUL CARNIVAL

CROWDS ARE AMUSED BY NOVELTY OF AFFAIR

Church Funds Should Be Well Augmented by Offering

The Carnival staged by the men of St. Thomas' church in the Elite Theatre on Friday evening last was an unqualified success—numerically, financially and socially. The interior of the building was a small replica of a city fair midway, both in color and costume.

The shouts of the stall holders, and the screams and laughter of the throng, combined with the music of the orchestra and the shouts of the "barkeepers" calling the results of the popularity contest, made a veritable bedlam (albeit a very enjoyable one). Miss L. Bruce proved to be the most popular girl at the Carnival and that young lady carried off the prize. The beguiling contest was won by Mr. Pickwell and Mr. Giff.

The money dance proved a big attraction, and very sincere thanks are extended to the orchestra for their voluntary services—these being Messrs A. Adams, G. Gerard, Leo Messier, Ray McLaughlin, Paul Spornitz, Vic Goulet and H. Benville. The following is a list of stall managers, all of whom truly did a "roaring" trade: Refreshment booth, Mrs. and Mrs. Wallace, Wainwright, and contest, Messrs C. Gilmour and Jack Taylor; ring-the-bell, F. Dickinson, Bagatelle, Ray Grier; Chinese laundry, Messrs G. Graham and Herb Wilson; duck pond, C.H. Church; mouse-in-the-hole, Chas. Horn; fortune telling, R. Robertson, "Bingo" E. Bonar, Jack Alderman and W. McKay; Aunt Sally booth, H. Chipston and T. Lismore; "Shrieking Sisterhood", C. T. Lally and A. Wittmann; bean bag, John Moore; fish pond, Ed. Moore; nine-pins, G. Grogan. Dance committee, Messrs A. Adams, W. Tansley, M. Ford, P. Wilkins, Door, Mr. C. Forryan, Barkers, Messrs George Glass and Kirk Snyder.

Little Reggie Lismore in his fancy costume made a great ball catcher for the Aunt Sally's, while Mr. Chas. Wainwright, as general assistant was in great demand also Mr. J. Wilkins as relief man.

Interpreting the religious experiences of the past into rules for today's happy living is, of course, the objective of Sunday study. Rev. Charles Dunn is fully qualified to present the International Sunday School Lesson, which he does each week for "The Star".

These lessons outline the coming Sunday study. They give you the opportunity to acquaint yourself with the lesson and perhaps be prepared to offer a helpful thought to the class.

LOCAL NOTES

This week sees the open-air skating rink taking shape for the winter months sport.

We are glad to know that Miss A. Haugen, who was brought to hospital on Saturday from Edmonton after having fallen from a ladder is getting along nicely now although suffering from badly sprained wrists and a bad shaking up.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O'Reilly were business visitors to Edmonton last week by motor.

The Rev. W. S. Brooker was visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dixon for a couple of days this week.

On behalf of Mr. "Butch" Maladore of Edmonton, who has been in hospital for the past two months (this unfortunately being his fourth stay there in five years) a benefit dance is being put on in Bloomington hall on Friday evening next, when all are invited to assist this worthy cause. During the evening a quantity of donations consisting of hardware, groceries, fruit, clothing and what have you will be auctioned off to swell the funds, and a real big crowd is looked for.

The matron of the municipal hospital wishes to thank the donors of fruit, vegetables, etc., which was sent to that institution from the harvest festival services at the Presbyterian and Anglican churches on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Courcier motored to the city at the week end, where Mr. Courcier will visit for a short while with her parents.

Spornitz, Vic Goulet and H. Benville.

Two High-Class Shows Coming to The Elite

On Saturday (for matinee and evening shows) and Tuesday next the British International picture feature, "The Mould of the Mountains" should prove a real star attraction at the local playhouse, and draw more than the usual crowd of play-goers.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week when "Let's be Dippy" starring Lew Ayres, comes to town, theatre patrons will have a grand opportunity of getting the "low down" on the love of a shipping clerk and his extravagant wife trying to live on a small salary.

It is the story of a modern marriage, young couple trying to make their money meet. The action takes place in a one-room apartment in which they eat, sleep and entertain. Just what happens to Lew Ayres, and Patricia Ellis, his wife, when they decide to take the advice of a friend and go "ritzy" supplies plenty of laughs, and something to think about, too.

Director Edward Ludwig and Universal have assembled a cast of well-known screen players to make the picture the very best to be shown in many months. Frank McHugh, the man with the funny laugh, helps to supply the fun along with his sweetheart, Isabel Jewel.

The matron of the municipal hospital wishes to thank the donors of fruit, vegetables, etc., which was sent to that institution from the harvest festival services at the Presbyterian and Anglican churches on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Courcier motored to the city at the week end, where Mr. Courcier will visit for a short while with her parents.

Another Old-Timer Passes to Beyond on October 6th

MR. S. KITCHEN BELIEVED BY DEATH OF WIFE

We learn with regret that Eliza, the beloved wife of Mr. S. Kitchen, passed away on October 6th, after a short final illness.

The late Mrs. Kitchen has resided with her family in the Wainwright district for the past 27 years. She was on her way to the coast on a visit to her daughter there, when she was taken ill on the train, and upon arrival at Jasper she was removed from the train to the home of another daughter at that place.

The deceased was well respected by all who knew her, and was mourned besides her husband, five sons and two daughters, these being Mrs. J. C. Forsyth, of Jasper Alta, Mrs. H. A. Jones, of Vancouver, B.C., and Sam, of Grimsby, Alberta, George, of Long View, California, U.S., Stanley, of Jasper, and Frank and Bert, of Wainwright.

FREE COURSES IN AGRICULTURE FOR STUDENTS OVER 16 YRS.

In an advertisement appearing in this paper last week, it was incorrectly announced that free courses in Agriculture and Home Economics would be given at the Olds and Vermilion Schools of Agriculture to boys and girls under sixteen years of age. Obviously this should have read OVER sixteen years of age.

LOCAL NOTES

Inspector Scott, R.C.M.P., of Vegreville, was in town this week on a visit to Corp. Collett at the local detachment.

Quite a number of the town ladies have entertained during the past week in honor of Mrs. C. A. Walton among these being Mrs. J. Welch, Mrs. F. C. Dickinson and Mrs. F. Clark.

Inspectors J. Campbell and J. Horn, both of Calgary are in town this week, giving the local branch of the Royal Bank the annual "once over."

Mr. Bagshaw was down from Edmonton last week end and was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bonner.

Mr. J. C. McLeod is away to Kin-sella for a couple of days on business.

Mrs. Chas. Horn entertained yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon in honor of Mrs. C. A. Walton who is visiting here from the coast.

Quite a pleasant time was spent over the teacups on Friday last when Mrs. Riud was hostess to a number of ladies.

Mrs. F. Ward and her daughter-in-law Mrs. H. Ward left last week end for Williamsburg, Ontario.

We are sorry to learn that little Margaret Coleman is very sick with pneumonia this week, and extend wishes for her speedy recovery.

New Bank Notes Freckle Marked to Halt Forgers

New issue banknotes have assumed freckles. Not from exposure to the sun but simply as additional precaution against gentlemen who sometimes put their personally manufactured currency in circulation.

In the past few months the Royal Bank has issued bills printed on the specially freckled paper. They are in $5 and $10 denominations, and to the casual observer the spots might be just a few drops of ink or something except that they are in a wide variety of colors—blue, red, pink, green and many others.

The colored spots are built right into the paper along with watermarks and provide the latest precaution against forgery. The spotted currency, before becoming currency is known as "pinnated paper."

Denominations $1, $2, and presumably $5 notes are printed on the same paper. The new and smaller Canada Bank currency will also be "freckled."

After enjoying his annual vacation for a couple of weeks, Mr. George Glass is now "back on the job" at the depot.

Opening Vermilion Sch. of Agriculture

The announcement has already been made that the Vermilion school of agriculture will reopen on October 20th. Already over 200 applications for admission have been received, and with the past week of excellent threatening weather, the number is growing so that it looks as though the school will have a record enrollment by the opening day. It appears also that there is going to be a record attendance of girls, as over 60 applications have been received.

Board and room has been reduced to 80 cents per day and there are no fees or costs of any kind. The girls of course, buy the material used in dressmaking classes, but keep the garments to their use.

The down age limit is 16 years, but this year's class will average from 18 to 22 years. There are no entrance examinations and the work is of a very practical nature. One successful course this year is the large number of registrations, as more than 100 girls, 10th, 11th and 12th grade. Some even have their 13th grade.

The boys do half their work in overalls and a considerable amount of their time is spent in the shop laboratories, and grain and livestock judging rooms.

The girls take a practical home-makers course, for what better information can a girl have for her life, than a study of foods, nutrition, cooking, sewing and nursing together with other things that make this the popular course that it is.

Reindeer Still on Trek to Hinterland

Ottawa—Some cold weather and a little snow, and Canada's great reindeer herd, 2,000 strong will start on the last leg of its long journey. On the road from near Nome, Alaska, to their new grazing ground at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, the deer have been travelling for approximately four years.

The herd is now on the west bank of the Mackenzie, but must await the snow-herd, before attempting the crossing of the river. Also, as reindeer cannot travel over ice, the surface must be covered with snow before it will be safe to attempt the crossing with the animals into their new haunts—the hinterlands of Canada.

Should Decide Now If November 11 Is Holiday

A despatch from Ottawa states that Remembrance Day falling this year on Sunday, November 11, will be celebrated on that day so far as the Secretary of State is concerned.

In the matter of statutory holidays falling on Sunday, the provision is made that the following Monday be observed for business purposes. Remembrance Day does not fall in that category.

Any departure from the provisions made in order to provide a business holiday on the following Monday will be a matter of local ruling.

A great deal of confusion and misunderstanding could be eliminated if some representative body or organization of business men in Wainwright would make an announcement as to the intent to observe the holiday or not in this town. Legion members and returned men generally will favor a Monday holiday. This matter might be taken up by the Town Council for discussion.

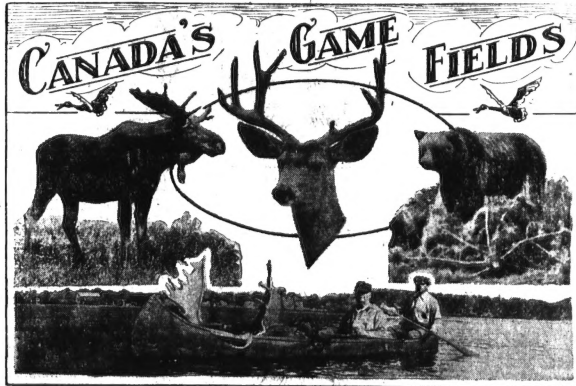

Archdeacon Cornish to Attend Deanery Meeting

On Monday next, October 22nd, a rural deanery meeting will be held at the vicarage of St. Thomas' (Ang.) church, when the rural dean, Rev. C. N. Bateman, vicar of St. Thomas' will preside.

The special speaker will be the Ven. Rev. Archdeacon Cornish of Edmonton, and clergy and wardens of the whole deanery are expected to be present.

The sessions are to open with a lunch at 12 o'clock noon.

The Sydenham School District is announcing that they will rebate the usual discount on current taxes up till and including December 15th next.

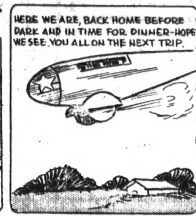

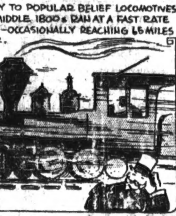

The hunting season is here. In Canada the moose is sleek and black, the deer is brown and the caribou is dark and grey. The big-horn sheep is restless and alert, the mountain goat snow white and the caribou in the prime. The grouse and woodcock are plump and contented in the cover, while the ducks and geese are gathering in favourite feeding grounds in preparation for their long flight south.

The game areas of Canada, scattered from ocean to ocean, are readily accessible from any part of the continent. It is not a country for the wealthy sportsman only; the hunter with moderate means may also be suited. Local residents can enjoy a trip at a very reasonable cost. Sportsmen from other lands are welcome and are only asked to show their appreciation of the privilege of access to her game fields by obeying the hunting laws and observing the ethics of sportsmanship.

A publication entitled "Canada's Game Fields" which should be of interest to sportsmen planning hunting trip in Canada may now be had upon application to the National Parks Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

The FAMILY DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES M.D.

THE CHEAPEST STERILIZER

This is one of the most valuable letters I have ever sent you, so note it well; there is nothing more truthful.

In handling any sort of sore, ulcer, abrasion or fresh wound of whatever nature, it is absolutely necessary that you do so with CLEAN hands and CLEAN DRESSINGS. Nothing impure or "septic" should contact the unhealthy sore of lesion or wound. It is your duty to clean up at once.

"Peroxide" of hydrogen is a cheap, reliable cleanser for foul places—but do not use peroxide continuously, unless the physician advises that way. Peroxide may hinder healing indefinitely in ulcers or chronic sores. I seldom use it more than once—right at the beginning of treatment.

Leaving all medicine out, you have within the ordinary kitchen the best means of making things absolutely sterile—boiling. The finest hospitals use that method, and there is none better. You can boil water till it is absolutely free from germs. You can boil the old bit of muslin, and make first class dressings for wounds. I can smile with satisfaction when I am called to attend a patient, and find his wound washed scrupulously cleaned with boiled water, and a clean, boiled "rag" resting over it to keep off flies, dust, or other impurity.

Bear in mind: A CLEAN wound begins healing at once. Clean wounds are seldom painful, because no irritants are there. And don't forget—you can clean a wound if you have some place to boil water and dressings.

Many things in nature cannot be improved upon. Heavy water, a new kind of water, has been made, but tadpoles die in it in an hour.

Pattern 8339: Young school girls delight in a jumper frock because of the way they have of being flattering to the wearer, and of the chance to wear gay blouses.

This jumper frock combines charm with utility. The jumper part is utterly simple, depending for its chic on the clever cutting and the large buttons trimming the front and the tabs in back. The little plaid blouse is also very simple in construction, but most charming in effect, because of its puffed sleeves and bright material. The blouse can be as attractive with long sleeves. Woolens and cottons vie with each other in popularity.

Experimental Farms News

PREVENTING HAIRLESS LITTERS

A considerable percentage of newborn pigs are lost every year from what is commonly known as hairlessness or gotter. Pigs affected with this disease are generally without hair or have a very light coat of hair at birth. The neck or throat is usually thick and the skin coarse and puffy. If the pigs are born alive they seldom live more than a few hours.

This condition is believed to be caused by the thyroid gland in the neck being diseased and enlarged and is similar to ordinary gotter in humans, and can be prevented by giving the sow potassium iodide during the gestation period.

At the Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, potassium iodide has been successfully used for over ten years in the prevention of hairless litters. Methods of administering the potassium iodide, as practised by this Farm, are as follows:

One ounce of potassium iodide is dissolved in one gallon of water and a tablespoonful is given to each sow two or three times weekly in feed during gestation period. A cheap mixture is also supplied all breeding and market pigs. The mineral mixture is composed of: slacked lime, 76 pounds; air slacked lime, 3 pounds; salt, 20 pounds; sulphur, 1 pound; potassium iodide, 1 ounce. The above mixture is kept before the pigs at all times and promotes a good healthy constitution in both breeding and market pigs.

THE CARDIAC CHILD

Heart disease in children is either congenital or acquired. Interference with normal development brings into the world a child with some defect in his physical structure, such as a weak lip or a cleft palate; in other cases it is the heart which is not properly formed. There are cases of congenital heart disease, and such cases are commonly known as blue babies because of the bluish tint of the skin which may be general, or be confined to the lips, nose, ears, fingers and toes.

Acquired heart disease, or disease developing after birth in the normally formed heart is, in children, nearly always the result of rheumatic fever. If we are to succeed in preventing heart disease in childhood and among young adults, we must either prevent the occurrence of rheumatic fever, or treat such cases as develop so that the heart will not suffer any permanent damage.

The specific cause of rheumatic fever is not known, but it is generally believed that the disease is due to a germ which gains entrance through the tonsils. This belief is strengthened because there is usually a history of tonsillitis, sore throat, or other infection of the throat marking the onset of the disease; many consider this to be the first stage of the disease.

In older persons, the attack is fairly typical. Following an acute onset, there are joint pains of varying degree and severity, accompanied by loss of appetite and other symptoms commonly associated with fever.

The disease is frequently not suspected in young children, because there may not be any marked pains in the joints—the typical symptom in older persons. The pains are often considered as "growing pains". A child may have pains in his extremities as a result of some unusual use of his muscles, or for some other reason, but never because he is growing. If such pains recur, the child should be examined by a doctor. Chorea, or St. Vitus' Dance, is a form of symptom of rheumatic fever.

The heart muscles and the heart valves are frequently inflamed as a result of the rheumatic fever infection. That is why rheumatic fever is a serious disease. There is only one way to treat these cases, and that is by having them rest in bed as long as the infection is active. This will be a matter of months in many cases. Convalescence must never be hurried. If the heart is to come without serious damage.

Unfortunately, the disease tends to recur, so the child's throat should be put in a healthy condition and his general health built up. He should avoid any infections of his nose and throat if they do occur, he should go to bed until he has fully recovered.

PAUL VISITS ATHENS
Paul was a doughty fighter and he had good need to be. He and Barnabas were now ready to start on another missionary journey and a long one. But they had a quarrel. Paul would not go if Mark went along, and Barnabas would not leave Mark behind.

And the contention was so sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other; and so Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus; And Paul chose Silas, and departed, being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

Paul did not get on very well. He met a series of hindrances and changed his route several times. At length he came to Troas, the site of ancient Troy where he fell ill and saw in a vision a man of Macedonia, saying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." Read carefully the next sentence (Acts 16: 10); it is notable for its pronouns: And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia. Where do we get this "we"? Who is it that comes into the narrative just at this point, under the shelter of this little word "we"? Is it the physician-author, Doctor Luke. From here on the Book of Acts is made up of two kinds of material, that which says "we" and that which says "he" or "they". The "we" sections show the times when Luke was present; the rest of the story he got from others.

And now the good news took on a new character. Paul had crossed into Europe and found a fresh field. He preached in Philippi, in Thessalonica, which is modern Salonica, in Berea, and even in proud Athens. That sophisticated city was the capital of the smart world.

For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing.

Partly out of curiosity, partly from genuine intellectual interest the Athenians allowed Paul to make his way up to Mars Hill and there set forth this new religion of which he was the representative. It was a keen test of his mental agility and he met it nobly.

Ye men of Athens (he began). I perceive that in all things ye are very religious. (Nothing in that to give offence).

For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, I declare I unto you.

phone Companies," which in the main will be those farmers who actually use the telephone.

Really, it is about the only thing the government can do if it desires to avoid losing more and more money on the service. Several sales have been made, actually been made, and plans have advanced to the stage where each rural line is priced, the number of actual subscribers given, the number of actual subscribers to the line and the number of subscribers in the good years. It has been stated on good authority that the government is definitely going out of the rural telephone business, which means if rural telephone subscribers wish to retain the service, they must pay for it.

Briefly the procedure is for a company to organize, buy a line at the price quoted by the government and proceed to arrange for the up-keep of the line. The payment to the government is split into three payments spread over a period of two years. Telephone lines of course be connected with central as now and for this service a monthly charge will be made. This monthly charge varies, but it is approximately fifty per cent of the present charge. All repair work, replacement of poles, etc., will become the duty of the company. It is hoped by this plan to bring about a greater number of rural telephone subscribers, as the more there are on any one line the less the up-keep charges will be to any one subscriber.

The government has compiled a list of questions and answers relative to Mutual Telephone Companies and their purchase of rural lines and this list just about covers all the information on the subject.

There is nothing startling or new about the arrangement as Mutual Telephone Companies have been operating for many years and appear to be working quite satisfactorily.

While it is quite true the rural telephone lines have caused the government some worry this is not the only telephone service to drop away in patronage during the depression. The telephone system in the capital city of Edmonton is city owned but at Calgary there was a heavy loss in number of subscribers during the depression. Telephone conditions in a city are of course vastly different to those in rural districts, both from an income and expense point of view, the city has the advantage of a large number of telephones within a small area while the problem in the country is one of a few telephones over a large area. This problem is exactly what the Mutual Telephone idea is trying to solve, namely "more telephones per mile" — Tribune Mercury.

WHO WOULDN'T RIDE (?) ?

Alberta isn't broke yet. Not by a long shot.

Calgary and Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat taxpayers and unemployed may feel the pinching of pennies at the capital in the reduction of relief grants, but it's "business as usual" at the Capitol. Haven't they just bought six new automobiles for the Cabinet Ministers at an average of some $1500 apiece? Away, hard times!

What if the Budget hasn't balanced by a total of some $10,000,000 in the past five years? What's that when Cabinet Ministers must ride?

Of course nine or ten thousand dollars' worth of new automobiles is a minor matter in a $10,000,000 annual Budget. It's just one of those "what's the use" things that make it so easy for governments to spend money. However, it isn't the first cost, it's the upkeep that counts. Last session, H. J. Montgomery, Member for Wetaakwin, asked some questions about the cost of operating Ministers' automobiles. The answer tabled in the House showed that in 1933 the cost of operation was $4001.43. The Ministers' cars at that time had an original cost of $18,242.21, so that the depreciation would amount to about another $4000, meaning about $8000 in all to provide transportation for the Ministers of Alberta's Cabinet.

Ottawa and Toronto seem to think that the cost of supplying Cabinet Ministers with automobiles is a rather

WILL YOU PLAY THE GAME

"And therefore whatsoever ye would that men would do unto you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."

Two thousand years ago this gospel was given. Do you think, dear reader, that this is workable. This year throughout the Raymond district we have a good crop of grain, and an exceptionally good beet harvest in sight. Are we going to let all we can do to play fair with the men we owe? Will we dodge them at every turn and try and buy all the things you want before you want before you begin to pay in a little to them.

We are not unmindful of the fact that some collectors are not very considerate, and that some firms may order their men to get a settlement, regardless of consequences, but we are glad to say that if there are such occasions they are very few indeed. In nearly every instance, all the collectors, want a square deal, and the assurance that you with their other debtors will try and meet them half way. It is to their advantage to be considerate and human, and in almost every case we find that they are this.

Then too, interest will make a big hole in any payment that may be made this year, and in many instances, the principal will stand just about where it was before any payment was made. This brother, remember that your creditors, have been carrying you a long time, and you ought to be willing to pay something for your trip. We can't expect to hitch-hike all the time without paying. Another good thing to remember is that you brought these obligations on yourself. You probably blame the high-powered salesman for your ills, and he may no doubt, had some influence, but when you put your name on the dotted line with the promise that you could have your own terms, there was no doubt a feeling of importance surging through you. So think back a little, before you unload on the men who are trying to collect. These wholesalers, have their bills to meet. They have the banks and other credit agencies after them, and they would like to get from under too, so don't be too inconsiderate and to hasty in what you have to say.

Put yourself in his place. Just remember, "Do unto others as you would that others do unto you." And, imagine that it is your bill you are trying to collect, and treat him as you would like to be treated if you were collecting on your own. Some day you may be, and then you would like to have the knowledge that you had never set an example in disrespect and insult, that someone else could hand back to you as some of your own medicine.

It's a long lane that has no turning — Ex.

JUSTICE ON TRIAL

The general rejoicing that at least a partial solution has been found to the mystery of the kidnapping and murder of the little Lindbergh boy is, we believe, shared by everybody.

No crime that we can remember short of the assassination of President McKinley, ever aroused such widespread horror and indignation as the stealing of the famous aviator's only child from his crib. And the horror was multiplied when, more than two months later, the poor baby's body was found in the woods near the Lindbergh's home, exposed for crows to peck at, reduced to a pitiful little skeleton by the work of insects and the elements.

The elemental sense of justice which dominates every sane human being will be satisfied with nothing less than the swift conviction and equally swift punishment of the kidnapers and murderers, whether one man or a dozen. Yet we do not believe that even such fiends should be convicted on anything but completely conclusive evidence. If there is a single reasonable doubt of their guilt they should be given the benefit of it.

So far we have nothing but the newspaper reports on which to base a belief as to the guilt or innocence of the man who has been arrested. Undoubtedly accurate as far as they go, these reports probably do not tell the whole story of the evidence which the authorities have up their sleeve. Nor do we understand that the case against Bruno Hauptmann is yet so complete that there is no question of his guilt.

Nothing is more to be deplored than "mob-law." It is a natural human impulse to desire to take a hand in administering summary justice for crimes which revolt every normal human instinct. We hope that there will be no legal technicalities permitted to interfere with bringing out the whole truth in this case; and we hope, even more devoutly, that there will be no attempt at or encouragement of lynch law.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin cures even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

IN 3 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these three seconds? In four seconds the Aspirin tablet starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Mr. Whiddicombe returned home last week from the Buffalo Park, where he had been engaged on the "fencing."

Miss Margaret McQuaker returned home on Wednesday.

Miss Elsie Haywood was helping Miss Goodale during threshing.

Mr. Nelson is busy these fine days ploughing with his tractor.

Miss A. Nicholson spent Sunday in Dewberry, visiting Miss R. Smith.

THRESHING IS ALMOST

COMPLETED

With almost perfect weather during the past week or so, great strides have been made in finishing up the work of threshing for the season. It is expected the end of the week will see the completion of the big job and farmers will have opportunity to count up their season's profits—and losses. While the returns are not up to average, over the entire district, some sections report good returns and with a better price prevailing, the majority of farmers will have the odd dollar over the bare necessity of life. Feed is adequate in every area of this district.

WEDDING BELLS

ENGER-DARL

At St. Andrew's (Presb.) church on Saturday afternoon last, the pastor Rev. W. S. Brooker, conducted the marriage of Miss Ida Josephine Dahl, of Court, Sask., to Mr. John Enger, of Irma. Mrs. Annie Walker and Miss Susie Walker acted as witnesses for the event and at the close of the ceremony the happy couple left for a short honeymoon trip. They will take up residence on the groom's farm at Irma.

SPARKS-SPILDE

The Rev. T. Edgar Armstrong, pastor of the United church, performed the marriage rites on Friday evening last, when he united in holy wedlock, Miss Anne Lorren, Spilde, of Cadogan, and Mr. Kenneth Warren Sparks, of Edgerton, at the churchmanse. After the ceremony the happy couple were showered with congratulations, and later left to reside in the McCafferty district, where the groom is teaching school.

The following poem was inspired by a speech to the students who use last year's history notes.

THE TEACHER'S FUNERAL
The time was set for two o'clock, When she would be laid away, Some students came to weep and wail, But many came to stay.

The preacher never got cold feet, He did his very best, "She's gone, poor soul, it is our loss, She surely earned her rest."

Then slowly up the aisle there came, A lad with tear-dimmed eye, Who, as he faced the preacher, said, "I came to say good-bye."

To bid farewell to my old friend, And now I want to say, "I've written out those history notes, She 'ruined' about that day."

The teacher slowly raised herself, Then calmly dropped her head, "I need no further proof," she said, "To show me that I'm dead."

We understand that there are more pupils to attend our school as the term commences.

The teachers have at last found out that the only thing that some of the boys shine in at school is their blue serge pants.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When washing dishes which have been used for either raw or cooked fish, add about two heaping teaspoons of baking soda to the dishwater. This deodorizes the dishes, dishwater and dishcloth.

To keep a bowl from sliding and turning around when you are mixing with one hand and adding ingredients with the other, put a folded towel under the bowl.

Always rinse chamois and doorknobs in soapy water and dry them where the heat is not intense if you wish to keep your gloves in good condition.

SYNOPSIS

Three weeks after a cream colored roadster had been found wrecked in the sea at the foot of a cliff, a girl calling herself Anne Cushing appears at the desert town Marston. She has bought, sight unseen, a ranch located thirty miles away. Soon after her arrival she marries Barry Duane, her nearest neighbor. Against her better judgment she accompanies her husband East. Mrs. Duane is bitterly resentful of Anne. Wealthy Cleo Pennington, her obvious choice vowing revenge, Anne recognizes a man loitering on the Duane grounds. Later Barry tells Anne John Gage is the real head of the Duane family. He fails to note her frozen silence.

Final Installment

The matter devolved to a whisper. Nancy lay quiet again. Barry sent a miserable glance at Martha. "Don't worry," I've nursed sick folks before. You see what you can do for that man. He's hurt bad. His jaw tightened, but he went. The outer room was quiet. Kennedy's eyes were closed, but he opened them as Barry entered. "Anything more than the leg?" he asked curiously. "A rib or two, maybe. Landed on a rock. Horse stumbled and threw me." "I've sent for a doctor, but you may have to wait several hours." "I'll stick it. Might have been still on the rock—if it hadn't been for Nancy. . . . I could do with a cigarette." Barry gave him one, and held the match. "Thanks. That'll help." "Anything else?" "No. The old girl fixed me up pretty well." He grinned again in that tight fashion, made an involuntary movement and winced. "If you want to hear what happened, I'll talk." Barry nodded. Gage came over and sat down. "Go on."

"I'll begin at your place." The black eyes were fixed on Barry. "I'd seen Nancy first here, but she was getting there. I guess you know the rest of the story by this time—if you got the truth." His glance flickered cynically from Barry to Gage. "He knows."

"All right. I was afraid, because my lights had gone wrong and I'd pitched over a bank. But I arrived in time to hear all the commotion. Then Nancy came back running for that calico horse. She sort of staggered when she got to him saying things to herself, not very loud, but it scared me. I'd asked her before I left here if she was sick, and she said no, she was all right. But she wasn't."

"I tried to stop her, but she sailed right on past, and I grabbed a horse, and followed her. When I caught up she didn't know me at first. I tried to make her turn back, but she was bent on running away from something. And then my horse stumbled and threw me, and she came back and sat down alongside of me for a while. She seemed to get the idea that I was sick and she had to take me home—poor kid. I don't know why, and I don't know how we ever got here. . . . It was a pretty stiff trip."

He scowled at the end of his cigarette. "I guess we've all given Nancy a rotten deal. It's about time she got a break." Martha hurried out, and paused on her way to the kitchen. "Barry, you might bring in some wood. I want good fire and plenty of hot water. She's all choked up." Barry made for the door. Gage was left alone with the man who had meant to blackmail his wife. Kennedy broke a stiff silence.

"Listen!" he said abruptly. "I'll be laid up for a long time. I don't like you and you hate me, but I like to pay my debts, and this one won't wait. Pull up closer—I've got to talk fast."

The young doctor from the county seat said it was pneumonia. He spoke briefly of health and youth and vitality, but on the second day he asked some odd questions, and added a guarded remark about reduced resistance and evidences of a long emotional strain. He agreed, after a brief hesitation, to stay with them for the first twenty-four hours, provided someone would return to his office with a message.

Petry almost lived in the gray car. News trickled into Marston, carefully edited. Late in that first day the rich visitor had come in with Petry, visibly tired and brief of speech, and telegrams had smoked along the wires in some kind of code. Later a fast airplane brought a secretary from somewhere out of the East. A big new automobile appeared in an incredibly short time and went streaking out over the Juniper.

While all these things were happening Anne tossed and muttered struggled to get up and get away somewhere. Barry escape came to them, about Paula, who was not to worry because Nancy would find a way out—Jim—murder—a policeman—mustn't be arrested, because everything would come out—she must hurry, and send her contract over a cliff. And presently Nancy did not babble, and they dared look at each other again. Gage had Petry drive him up to the Perch, and took Martha with him.

For nearly four days Cleo had been virtually alone at Eagle's Perch. All of her neat plans had tumbled once more, but one hard, bright little thought winked up out of the ruins. Nancy might die.

The first day of isolation she had endured, because one could not openly do much else when people were sick, but the second day was less excusable, and now her eyes were bright with repressed temper. Added to that was the fact that she was finding it difficult to get away. There were two cars now but they were always in use. And the saddle horses had been turned out somewhere.

that anyone would doubt my word against that of a discharged chauffeur—a broken-down gambler who had stopped, realising that she had said too much. Gage gave her a brief smile.

"You're well posted on his record, aren't you? And you didn't discharge him, he left. I have evidence of that, too. I also have detailed affidavits covering some of your conversations with Kennedy. One of them is particularly instructive. That was the time you tried to buy this check from him. Maybe you recollect that you'd had a very long. He was an operative from a detective agency."

"Really! Perhaps you'll tell me that Kennedy was a detective too! It's too bad that he was shot the same night that your wife's sister staged a front page exit over that cliff!"

"Maybe he was. But he's a little mind of your speech, please." "Young woman, you've been playing a risky game, and you've lost it. It was worse than risky, it was a dirty game, and if the story ever came out you would be a long time living it down. And if your father should get wind of it, and the way you're packing you off somewhere, Ambrose is pretty easy with you, but he has his limits."

"I shouldn't think you could afford to talk about blackmail!" Cleo blazed at him. "I suppose you mean that you are going to hold your precious documents over my head to keep me from telling."

"Call it anything you please. But get this idea firmly in your head—this thing is going to stop right here. You are going to keep quiet about Ambrose's plans, and I have told Duane yet about your attempt to railroad his wife, but at the first indiscretion he is going to get the whole nasty story. If I should die before you, the sealed papers will go to Nancy. Hays I made myself clear."

Gage found the one weak spot in her hard armor. Of all the people in the world, she could least endure to have Barry know what she had done to get him.

At the door he paused. "There's an express that goes through the Junction at seven. I've wired for a car to meet you, and Petry will take you over. Martha is packing your trunk now. I told her to Good-bye." The door closed behind him.

When Nancy awoke it was mid-afternoon and someone was sitting on an absurdly low stool beside her bed. He was bent over, with his head resting on his hands, and the stool was so low that the bowed head was only a little way from her finger tips where they rested limply on the bed.

It was a brown head, with thick hair, roughened in the way she loved. I couldn't be real. She moved her hand to touch it.

"Oh—hello!" He tried so hard to be matter of fact—not to frighten her. "It's pretty nice to see you a wake again."

TWO ECONOMICAL PAINTS

Delicious desserts need not be expensive. Here, for instance, are two recipes for dishes that are decidedly economical—and just as decidedly delicious:

Baked Prunes
Cover 1 pound of prunes with cold water and let stand for 4 hours. Drain prunes and reserve the liquor; add ½ cup sugar to the liquor and boil until the sugar is dissolved, skimming if necessary. Place the drained prunes in a covered casserole, cover with hot liquor and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees) for 40 minutes.

California Prune Betty
2 cups cooked prunes
2 apples
3 cups soft bread crumbs
One-third cup granulated sugar
¼ cup butter
Cinnamon
One-third cup prune juice
Pit prunes and slice. Pare, core and slice apples. Arrange one-third the bread crumbs in baking dish, cover with half the prunes, sugar, apples, and butter. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon. Add half of remaining crumbs, then remaining prunes, sugar, apples, butter and more cinnamon. Cover with crumbs, and add prune juice. Cover dish and bake about one hour in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.).

Orange Milk Foam
6 tablespoons orange juice
6 tablespoons evaporated milk
6 tablespoons cold water
1 teaspoon sugar

Publicity had swept over them like a wave and had gone, leaving them breathless but safe. There might have been privacy for some, but not for Nancy Curtis, who had glittered for a brief time and whose brother-in-law was a multi-millionaire.

Now the tumult had died, and life was their own again. Letters and telegrams had been pouring in and 'ay in drifts on the table and in her lap.

And finally there was a letter from Mrs. Duane. It was addressed to Barry and it was restrained, and full of emotion, but Anne knew how difficult those few careful sentences had been. "I'll do my share," Anne thought, and felt a twinge of pity. "She is Barry's mother. I'll do all that she will let me."

Aloud she said: "It was nice of your mother to release you from your promise about living in Grandleigh. I know it is hard for her. But she'll be terribly proud of you. If you can get away, perhaps we could go back for a little while, maybe at Thanksgiving or Christmas—if she would like it."

"Why—that sounds good to me," His eyes warmed. "With the salary I'm to draw as president of the new company, we can make it a real party."

His eyes went back to some telegrams which lay open on the table. He knew them by heart. One was from this Mammoth Pictures Corporation whose hard-won contract Nancy had once had to let go. It offered a star contract now, with nearly twice the salary. The other was from Amalgamated, adding a bonus on every picture.

He fingered the yellow sheets and looked soberly across at her. "It's all right, Nancy—if you want to. I mean—I wouldn't stand in your way."

"Thanks for that, Barry. I've been thinking about it, of course. It seems as though I'd never really finished anything that I began. I had a job in a little town, and then Paula went away and I gave it up to follow her and got another in a big town. And I let that go for my first little part in a new play, and after two years I left the stage to go to Hollywood—and I ran away from that and bought a ranch."

And then I tried being married for a while—just a very little while. If you don't mind, I think I'd like to stay and make a good job of that."

Something swooped. Barry picked her up out of the big chair, and a letter and telegrams went swishing down like rain.

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Beat or shake thoroughly. Serve at once in a large glass, chilling with ice if desired. Fresh milk may be used in place of evaporated milk.

This is an excellent mid-meal drink for children who are undernourished. It is also a good beverage accompaniment for meals. Refrigerated (chill) makes the drink very economical.

FLAVOROUS MEAT DISHES
There are tricks in all trades—particularly in cooking. One woman can serve fish or meat that fairly melts in the mouth. Another, with just as much effort, prepares a dish that is—well, "ordinary" is as far as we can go. A touch of sugar improves many a meat dish by sweetening the food. Try these recipes and you will quickly note the "difference."

Baked Ham
1 slice rarer than 1 inch thick
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon mixed mustard
Milk
Mix together the sugar and mustard. Rub well into both sides of the ham. Lay in a shallow baking dish. Pour in enough milk to cover the ham. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes or until ham is tender and thoroughly cooked. Add more milk during the cooking if needed.

Beef Texas Style
Cut cold roast beef in thin, uniform slices and reheat in a sauce made as follows:
1 onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 green peppers
1 cup canned tomatoes
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
3 drops tobacco
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper
Slice onion and fry in butter until soft and yellow. Add finely chopped pepper and tomatoes. Simmer until thick. Add seasonings and meat. Cook until meat is hot. Serve garnished with small triangles of thin buttered toast.

Club Plata Salad
(Serves 1)
On the large section of an ordinary grill plate, arrange bed of crisp lettuce and center with a scoop of cottage cheese. Circle cheese with segments of orange, making a double row of segments. (Segments should have all enveloping membrane removed.) Garnish with a maraschino cherry. Serve with a sweet French dressing.

On similar divisions of plate, arrange a mound of potato salad, garnished with olives and a slice of hard cooked egg, and two small peanut and jelly sandwiches.

Accompany with a beverage, preferably orange juice.

Treasure Chests
(Serves 6)
6 bananas
¼ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
Choose thoroughly ripe bananas, with brown spotted skins. Bake bananas in skins about 15 minutes. Split skin carefully down one side; remove pulp, mash, and add orange juice and sugar. Return to skin. Serve at once while warm.

Marshmallow Pie
(Makes one pie)
2 eggs
4 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup water
2 tablespoons butter
1 dozen marshmallows
Beat egg yolks. Mix cornstarch and sugar. Combine all ingredients except marshmallows. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes. Fold in the marshmallows cut in small pieces. Cool. Place in baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made of whites of eggs and 2 tablespoons sugar, and brown slightly in a slow oven.
